Dear Carol,

As a breeder and exhibitor, you care deeply about the health of your canine companions. As a fellow breeder and exhibitor in conformation, obedience and agility, I share your concerns. That's why when I accepted the position as manager of Caring Canine Rehabilitation Center, it wasn't just a job, it was an answer to a calling!

Tracey Sasher DVM, CCRP felt the same way when she came to work for Loving Touch Animal Center and Caring Canine Rehabilitation Center. You see, not only is she a veterinarian and canine rehabilitation practitioner who practices alternative medicines such as acupuncture and Chinese herbs, but she successfully competes with her dogs in agility and trains in field work as well. And of course, there is Michelle Tilghman DVM, CCRP, owner of Caring Canine and the neighboring holistic veterinary clinic, Loving Touch Animal Center- she was raised by Henry and Libby Tilghman, breeders of multiple AKC champion Cairn Terriers.

The therapies here at Caring Canine can be used to:

- * Enhance conditioning and endurance of the show or performance dog *
- * Improve conditioning and decrease pain in the geriatric dog *
- * Enhance a weight loss program in the overweight dog *

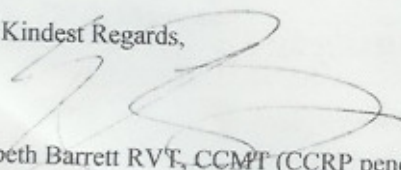

Additionally, we offer a variety of therapies that can help dogs with problems such as:

- * Recovery from injury or surgery *
- * Osteoarthritis *
- * Hip Dysplasia *
- * Degenerative Joint Disease *
- * Vertebral and Disc Conditions *
- * Degenerative Myelopathy *

I would like to come to one of your monthly club meetings to deliver a short Power Point presentation and talk about our services and some of our previous cases. Additionally, we enjoy hosting club 'field trips' or an evening meeting so your members can see first-hand our facility and therapy options. In the mean time, I have enclosed a few brochures and business cards for you to share at your next club meeting.

To schedule a program speaker, club trip, or if you simply have questions I can address please feel free to contact me at Caring Canine at (770) 469-0023, or by my cell phone at (770) 827-1121. I look forward to talking to you soon!

With Kindest Regards,

Elizabeth Barrett RVT, CCMP (CCRP pending)
Manager
